Learning Disability Awareness Training

Do you or your staff or students need help understanding ...

- ✓ What is a learning disability?
- ✓ What sort of difficulties people with learning disabilities face?
- ✓ What does 'reasonable adjustment' mean?
- ✓ How can I improve my communication with people with learning disabilities?

Listen To Us is a group of people with learning disabilities who write and deliver learning disability awareness training.

Listen To Us is part of CLASP. CLASP is a small charity supporting adults with learning disabilities to lead independent lives in the Wokingham Borough.

Listen To Us training is interactive and inclusive, and tailored to suit the audience. From professionals working with people with learning disabilities, to children supporting their peers and being inclusive at school.

The Health & Care Act 2022 says all CQC registered health & care providers must ensure staff are trained in how to interact with people with a learning disability.

The group work hard to make the training interesting, professional and enjoyable. They use games & real examples to demonstrate their teaching.

In 2021, Listen To Us were awarded the Queen's Award for Voluntary Service for their training around learning disability awareness.

Training sessions

What we offer:

* Our Values Training is aimed at social care and NHS staff, support workers, public transport staff etc. The aim is to raise awareness of what it's like to have a learning disability, and the challenges people might face.

* Learning Disability Awareness Training is for schools & colleges to help students understand and celebrate everyone's differences.

* Learning Disability Awareness Video for Primary Care staff.

* Hate & Mate Crime Training is for anyone who would like to learn more about disability hate crime, and the difference between a real friend and mate crime.
